"Remedial class"

27/06/2023 (Tuesday)

Today on 27/06/2023 (Tuesday) a "Remedial class" was organized on the topic " stages of growth and development " at KN Bakshi College of Education, Karmatand. In which today's class was conducted by college teacher Mrs. Reshma Agrawal. Mrs. Reshma Agrawal explained the "stages of growth and development" in detail to the students. The study of the process of growth and development of an individual is an important subject of educational psychology. Growth is generally considered to mean the development of various organs of the human body and the ability of the organs to function. As a result of this development of organs, his behavior is also affected in some way or the other. Development leads to maturity, that is, development is a process of maturity. In fact, the word development is used for all types of changes that lead to progress in work efficiency and behavior. Thus, it can be said that the concept of development is broader than growth. If growth points towards quantitative changes, then development towards quantitative changes, generally the process of growth and development goes together. It was an informative session for the students. The main objective of today's class was to explain it to those students who
